Music con Brio Agreement

Email is Music con Brio's primary mode of communication with parents. Information regarding schedules, concerts, volunteer opportunities, and tuition will all be sent out via email. It is every parent/guardian's responsibility to regularly check, read, and respond (when necessary) to these emails.

Attendance is one of the most important factors contributing to a student's success in music making. To ensure every student's success, students must attend no fewer than 7 out of every 8 lessons. (This includes both group and partner lessons.) This means only one unexcused absence is allowed per month. If you must miss due to an emergency or illness, email info@musicconbrio.org or call/text your teacher or Ms. Carol to be excused. (You can reach Ms. Carol at 309-838-8807.) If you are unable to attend regularly, Music con Brio reserves the right to give your lesson time to someone else.

Being on time and bringing your instrument is a part of good attendance. Students who are routinely late and/or without instruments and/or are otherwise unprepared for the lesson are unable make proper use of lesson time. Therefore, punctuality and preparedness are part of the attendance policy. Performing in concerts for others is an important part of learning an instrument. Students and parents are expected to prioritize punctual attendance at all Music con Brio performances.
